A FLYING ELEPHANT -One of the most remarkable phenomena ever seen in London was witnessed one evening recently by- the passongers on the George Peabody river steamer, just as Big Ben of Westminster was on the point of striking sever. This was the appearance of a huge white elephant in the sky making straight, as it seemed, for the House of Parlament. There was some little doubt at first as to the precise character of the beast as it charged through the air head first in a direct ine for the center of Westminster Palace, as ARRESTED.—Charles Dudley, white, a sas though its purpose was to sweep away the halls and passages which connect the Commons House with the shares of setting fire to the frame house extent by Mr. John Lilly, near the Wastington and Ohio depot, early yesterday neiting, and lodged in jult to swall annual mention.

It is for the center of Westminster Palace, as though its purpose was to sweep away the halls and passages which connect the Commons House with the flourse of Lords. The apparitum rapidly descended through the air, and speculations were hazarded as to what it was.

Men looked up and trembled, while timid we much screened. "The ond of the world has come and rear lest!" The Captain of the George Pesbody moored his boat to the pier to give those who desired it the chance of escaping give those who desired it the chance of escaping by the way of fambeth pallace. In an instant the monsters was close from the boat, and a captus of startled voices shouted. "A white olephant!" There was no longer any doubt olephant!" There was no longer any doubt about the fact. It was an elephant, whose trunk was rapidly moving from the to side. With furious speed it passed over the stern of the Geo. Pestody and dashed into the Thames The sociators breathed more freely. As soon as the elephant totaled the water half a doz-n boats dashed from the pier to investigate the phenomenon. One oarsman was far in advance of the other. He was seen to thrust a hand to-ward the struggling monster, and in an instant Hancock and English pole, and for holding a it collapsed. It was aggrantic elephant made lathe and paper.
